CLOSING REMARKS: "I Don't Mean to Be Rude..."

Coming out of an office supply store one day, I could hear across the parking lot, a lady expressing her views to another man, with whom she was upset. Evidently, when he got out of his vehicle, he moved a shopping cart that was close to his vehicle. He moved the cart to the next parking spot far away from his vehicle. I heard her say in a very abrupt voice, "Sir, I don't mean to be rude, but you pushing that cart to the next parking space and not taking it to the cart location is just as lazy and as bad as the person who left it there to start with!" You can rest assured when someone starts out a sentence with "I don't mean to be rude, but...", you can be sure that most likely, they are getting ready to be rude. Even though there may have been an essence of truth of what she said, her actions spoke louder than her words. How she spoke, spoke more loudly than what she said. I heard the man reply, "Well, you take the cart in if you want it in." His re-action was no better than her original action. Someone once said, "Say what you mean; mean what you say; but don't be mean when you say it." May we each be kind in our actions, sweet with our words, and cautious with our spirit when we have to speak the truth in love.

May the Lord bless you.
